

Tools for Journalists

Easily search community conversations

Our platform makes it easy to search through and analyze recorded conversations.

Explore past LVN conversations hosted by media organizations:

- o THE CITY conversation about rent and housing
- o Milwaukee PBS conversation with voices of rural Wisconsin
- o Public Narrative conversation on accessibility and ADA

Embed community voices into articles

Using our embed tool, you can incorporate community voices and perspectives directly from the platform into an article or website. See examples from The Cap Times and Frontline PBS.

THE CAP TIMES Local Voices Network: Community members discuss Madison's racial disparities

Mary, recorded in Greenbush in a conversation with Sue Robbins

One of my interests for decades has been maternal/child health. And the disparities that are in our healthcare, the prejudice that I witness when I would go with families to any of the clinics, to any of the hospitals, would just break my heart. And not to be able to stand up as a white nurse and say to somebody who was making horrible assumptions about a child and a mother. When I got a job in Madison and started working, I was just like shocked by how people treated people of color, especially African-Americans.

Mary
Greenbush, Madison Pilot

One of my interests for decades has been maternal/child health. And the disparities that are in our healthcare, the prejudice that

Share Hosted by Sue Robbins · Feb 14, 2019 What is this?

FRONTLINE FILMS PODCASTS TOPICS SCHEDULE

When Maria Bendixen was 16 years old, the barn on her family's dairy farm caught fire. She was showing cattle at the county fair when the news reached her. As she raced home, the farm in flames, she saw behind her a caravan of trucks and trailers from the fairgrounds, neighbors and strangers coming to help.

Here's the way she told it:

Maria
Loyal, WI, Rural Wisconsin & Milwaukee

What I remember most vividly about that was driving back from the fairgrounds to my farm, knowing that it was on fire, and Share Hosted by Riley Hebert · Nov 13, 2020 What is this?

Custom pricing structures

Upon request, we offer custom pricing structures for media partners ranging between $250 - $350 per conversation with final pricing based on additional project needs.

Experience the LVN platform

Learn how to use the LVN platform and ask questions connected to the needs of your project. To request a platform demo, email kelly@cortico.ai.